ELIOTA vir clarissimus, & præter omnium, quos ego ex Equestri ordine noui, consuetudinem, bonarum literarum studijs mirificè deditus, primus hac nostra memoria, Dictionarium Latino Anglicum, in gratiam studiosorum composuit. Quod opus ille vocauit BIBLIOTHECAM suam. In cuius labores, postquàm illum mors immatura præripuisset, ego pertractus amicorum precibus successi, & BIBLIOTHECAM illam pro mea tenui facultate, iterum atq; tertiò auctiorem reddidi, donec tandem Thesaurus hic noster in lucem prodijt. Illud ego in hoc loco præfigendum putaui, ne vel memoria tam inusitatæ viri Nobilis industriæ, per immodestiam tituli rationem, periret, vel ego, meritò à nostris hominibus ingratus existimer, cum omnibus constet, me illius laboribus ad hunc Thesaurum conficiendum non mediocriter adiutum esse.

AD CLARISSIMVM VIRVM Robertum Dudleium, Leicestriæ Comitem,

Regiæ maiestati à consilijs, & Oxonienſis Academiæ Cancellarium, Thomæ Cooperi, de Thesauri dedicatione, epistola.

CVM superioribus annis (illustrissime vir) in subsidium studioſę iuuentutis Eliota Dictionarium Latino anglicum maximis laboribus conficeret: mihi visus est vir doctus & prudẽs mente cogitationéq; prospexisse, in quantas angustias ætate subsequente res literaria prolapsura videretur. Postquam enim nostra memoria, propter graues temporum & religionis mutationes, antistites Ecclesiæ verbiq; ministri, non in contemptum modò hominum, sed in periculum etiam salutis & fortunarum trahi cæperunt: mirum profectò quam ex eo tempore quotidie magis deiecta sit iuuentutis spes & industria, quam vbiq; contemptæ iacuerint artes & disciplinæ. Nam cum illud vitæ genus, cuius antea dignitas & amplitudo quasi præmium studiosorum laboribus propositum fuit, iam vel, quod multi putant, coniunctam habeat ignominiam, vel, quod impij sperant, imminentem calamitatem: & parentes, suorum prospicientes commodis, alia vitæ instituta liberis præscribunt: & ipsi iuuenes, vulgi potius existimationẽ quam rerum dignitatem sequentes, ad quiduis sunt promptiores, quam ad diuturnas studiorum molestias sine certo fructu perferendas. Hinc itaq; fit, quod à præclaris ingenijs præmaturè distituantur Academiæ & scholæ publicæ, multosq; iuuenes habeant liberaliter sanè institutos educatione doctrinaq; puerili, sed paucos admodum, qui cognitionis & scientiæ cupidi, in literas illas interiores & reconditas altius penetrare studiant: nisi qui fortè ad medicinę cognitionem, aut iurisprudentiam paulo maiori impetu ferantur. Reliqui, vel abiectis studijs ad auticam vitam confugiunt, vel ad regni instituta ediscenda se conferunt, vel ad alias ætatis degendę rationes desciscunt, ex quibus ampliores credunt vtilitates sibi profecturas. Quamobrem meritò mihi videntur conqueri Christianæ religionis prędes & viri doctissimi, quibus eiusdem hodie tradita est administratio, cum incredibili viritatis Euangelicæ incõmodo magnam esse in plerisq; locis ecclesiarum destitutionem, summamq; penuriam eorum, qui diuini fœderis prędconium suscipiant, qui Ecclesiastica munia subeant, qui reliquas literatæ pietatis functiones exerceant. Cum enim cæteras reipublicę partes capescentibus certi honores magnaq; præmia proponantur Ecclesiarum verò rectoribus & literarum magistris ad contemptum maior quàm ad laudem locus relictus sit: non mirum si multi reperiantur, qui gloriam & dignitatem, pauci qui coniunctam cum ignominia virtutem & doctrinam persequantur. Sed imprudentur à me & in tempestiuè hęc illata videtur querela, cum omnium iam sermone peruulgatum sit, tuo maximè consilio, & clarissimi viri Sicilli maiestatẽ Regiam iamdudum inijsse rationem, quemadmodum non artes solum iniuria temporis labantes in pristinam restituantur dignitatem, sed etiam vt iuuentus ignauia languescens gloriæ stimulis erecta magis constanter perferat graues studiorum labores. Hanc opinionem mentibus hominum infixit anno ſuperiore Cantabrigienſis profectio: cum Regia maieſtas in ipſis quaſi Muſarum delubris, non ſolum præſentia ſua declarauit honeſtiſſimarum artium cultores ſibi & curæ fuiſſe & delectationi, ſed etiam ſplendida & illuſtri oratione ſtudioſorũ animos ad ſingularem quandam ſpem ampliſſimorum virtutis & induſtriæ præmiorum concitabat. Verè quidem illa principis officio fungitur & illuſtris & immortali prædicatione dignæ. Poſtquam enim ſtrepitus armorum & bellorum tumultus prudentiſsimis conſilijs ſedauit, ad pacis rationes componendas incumbit: vt linguarum peritia vigeat, vt humanitatis diſciplinæ floreant, vt laudabilium artium doctrina in pretio ſit, ſummo ſtudio contendit. Qua in re licet ipſius præcipuè virtus & prudentia eluceat, veſtra tamen non exigua laus eſt, qui in eiuſdem ſocietatem conſilij veniſtis. Veſtris enim monitis, veſtris hortatibus, & excitata eſt & confirmata Regiæ Celſitudinis induſtria. Quamobrem diuino certè beneficio factum puto, vt his temporibus Academiæ noſtrates præclaræ Muſarum ſedes, vos inprimis duos habeant patronos: quos omnes vident, & ſingulari quadam naturæ bonitate, & incredibili Reipublicę ſtudio liberalium diſciplinarum ſuſcepiſſe defenſionem & propagationem. Satis enim intelligit veſtra prudẽtia, nihil eſſe in natura rerũ, quod tam fuſa in omnes partes habeat commoda, quam humanitas atq; doctrina. Nam præclara hæc & eximia communium literarum eſt vtilitas, quod earum conformatio, ſi vel ad mediocres naturas acceſſerit, incredibilem vim prudentiæ, conſilij, dignitatis, ad omnes Reipublicę partes conſtituendas profert. Quis enim non videt, quantum poſsit humanitatis & diſciplinę inſtitutio, in vero numinis cultu promouendo, in religione confirmanda, in moribus erudiendis, in obeundis legationibus, in exponendis Principis Senatúſue mandatis, in ſuaſione aut diſſuaſione legum, conſiliorum tractatione, cauſis publicis, iudicijs, cæteriſq; rebus omnibus, quibus adminiſtratio Reipublicæ continetur? Labantibus igitur literarum ſtudijs, & maximę republicę vtilitates ſimul concidunt. Pro cognitione & ſcientia, turpiſſima rerum omnium ignoratio: pro ſincero dei cultu, anilis ſuperſtitio: pro dicendi facultate, ſtupida infantia: pro conſilij copia & vbertate, mentis & iudicij inopia: pro exculta morum elegantia, agreſtis & inamœna ruſticitas: pro manſuetudine & humanitate, barbara quędam feritas in vitam hominum inuadit. Quamobrem (vir præclariſſime) quod liberaliſſimarum artium te patronum & defenſorem præbeas, quod ad eorũ conſilia te adiunxeris, qui de ſuſcitanda literarum dignitate cogitant, & Reipublicæ maximam conſilias vtilitatem, & immortalem tibi laudem nominiſq; prædicationem. Huius enim facti grata erit in omnem poſteritatem recordatio. Præclara quidem ſemper habita ſunt iſta in ſplendidis & illuſtribus viris, vt ſua virtute & induſtria iuris & legum æquabilitatem ſeruent, ciues in officio contineant, ſeditioſos pacis perturbatores reprimant, ab externis bellis patriam defendant: ſed vulgares hæ nobilium virorum laudes ſunt, & cum multis communes. Iſta verò eximia ſunt & ſingularia, ſummo ſtudio curare, vt procul à regni finibus exterminetur infantia: vt longius amandetur fœda rerum ignoratio: vt ſuum locum virtus & ingenij gloria conſequatur: vt, qui ſtudijs & artibus honos debetur, ſtudijs & artibus honos deferatur. Verùm vt pauci ſunt, qui harum rerum gloriam expetunt: ita qui diuinitus excitati in eam rem incumbunt, ab omnibus maiori & honore, & admiratione digni exiſtimantur. Sed hæc cura non claros modò viros, viros, & eos qui cum dignitate ſunt in Republica debet attingere, ſed omnes præterea bonos ciues, & imprimis eos, qui literarum cauſa cupiunt. Quorum è numero cum ego me profitear eſſe: cum officio meo coniunctum arbitror, vt aliquid in communem ſtudioſorum fructum proferam. Omnes itaq; ingenij mei facultates, cuiuſquemodi ſunt, in hunc vtriuſq; linguæ Theſaurum contuli: vt, qui in re literaria tenuiores ſunt, hinc petant, quo ſuam poſſint inopiam ſuſtentare, donec per ſe maiores orationis diuitias ſibi comparent. Cæteras artes & ſcientias alij ſuo tempore promouebunt, ego pro virili mea parte ſtudui, vt hac ratione iuuenibus noſtris aliquantò facilior eſſet aditus ad latinæ linguæ cognitionem atq; facultatem. Hic enim non ſolum cuiuſq; vocabuli vernaculam interpretationem variam & copioſam reperient: ſed etiam ex ampliſſimo Roberti Stephani Theſauro commodiſſimè congeſtas locutionũ formulas, quibus eiuſdem apud probatos authores vſus, quantúmuis multiplex, indicatur. Ex eijſdem etiam ſubſcriptis locutionũ exemplis intelligant, cuiuſmodi in illuſtribus ſcriptoribus adiuncta ſint nominibus epitheta, quæ verbis eleganter aduerbia connectantur, quæ interdum antitheta & contraria, quæ nomina quibus verbis, quæ item verba quibus nominibus aptè cohæreant. Genera verborũ & nominum, inflexionem, accentum, diriuationem, nuſquam penè prætermiſi: vt illorum etiam conſulerẽ induſtriæ, quibus deeſt viue vocis inſtitutio. Aſcripta ſunt vbiq; authorum nomina: vt non obſcurum eſſe poſſit, quid cuiq; debeatur. Hinc etiam vel exiguo negotio depromant ſibi non contemnendum apparatum verborum & locutionũ, ſiue de re aliqua dicendum ſit, ſiue ſcribendum. Accedunt & iſta non exigua commoda: quod hic Latini ſermonis elegantiam & concinnitatem obſeruent, quod eiuſdẽ cum noſtro idiomate conſentionem intelligant, quod in ſuis ſcriptis ad optimorum authorum imitationem ſe facilius componant. Quamobrẽ hic vnus liber omnia videtur adferre ſubſidia & adiumenta, quibus iuuenes inſtructi laudabilem orationis facultatem conſequantur. Hoc quicquid eſt laboris & Induſtriæ, quod in Theſauro noſtro congerendo locaui, tibi inprimis (vir ornatiſſime) dicandum arbitror. Oxonienſes enim, ſi quid in literis hoc tempore moliuntur operoſius, ſi quid in lucem proferendum ſtatuunt, id cenſent tuæ Dignitati tum iure, tum merito deberi. Si enim qui fundum ſtudioſè colendum, diligenter conſerendum, eleganter exornandum curat, eiuſdem prouentus iure ſibi vendicat: æquum etiam videri debet, vt quos ſtudiorum fructus Oxonienſis Academia profert, eos tibi ſolus auferas, qui tam libenter eam & ſtudio foues, & conſilio regis, & authoritate defendis. Cum igitur ego ſemper alumnus huius ſcholæ fuerim: non video quemadmodum ſine iuſta ingratitudinis reprehenſione poſſim non tibi labores meos conſecrare. Quod tamen non ea ſpe facio, vt mea dicatione ad tuas quicquam laudes accedat. Quid enim ad ſolis ſplendorem lucernæ lichnioliue lumen, aut ad immenſam maris magnitudinem quid poteſt adferre ſtilla muriæ? Ad eum vero laudum tuarum cumulum, quem præclariſſimarum virtutum ornamentis tibi comparaſti, multo minus hac inſcriptione additur. Me tamen nominis tui ſplendore ad huius lucubrationis obſcuritatem illuſtrandum abuti, non grauiter, vt ſpero, patiere. Nam & ea es humanitate, vt oblata munuſcula non tam ſuo pondere, quàm offerentium voluntate metiaris: & ea grauitate atq; conſtantia, vt quarum modo literarum tutelam ſuſceperis, earum iam nolis fructus quantumuis exiguos aſpernari. Hunc itaq; Theſaurum literarium tibi exhibeo teſtem & animi in te mei, & omnium tuorum Oxonienſium voluntatis. Quem ſi pro ſolita benignitate tua in bonam acceperis partem diuitiarũ certè tuarum cumulo non multum, humanitatis commendationi plurimum acceſſerit.

VALE.

ANNOTATIONES QVIBVS STVDIOSI LECTORES ADMONENTVR DE RATIONE & ordine istius libri, ne forte in quærendis dictionibus vel errent vel hæsitent.

ORDINEM alphabeticum diligenter in omnibus seruaui, præterq̃ in illis vocabulis quæ ab alijs deducuntur. Nam, quæ Grammatici vocant deriuatiua, reieci ad suos fontes, vnde promanant & profluunt. Vt istæ dictiones Esurio, Esuriens, Esuries, Esuritio, &c. non habentur in alphabetica serie, sed post verbum Edo, à quo deriuantur. Quam rationem ideo putaui vtiliorem fore, quod facile iuuenis cognoscat, vtrum dictio, de qua dubitatur, primogenia sit, an deductitia: & si deductitia, à quo tandem trahatur, & quos habeat generis consortes. Suis tamen locis in alphabetico ordine reperies, vbi ista, post suas origines, quærenda sint.

Vernaculas phrasium & locutionum interpretationes de industria plurimis in locis inuenies mancas & imperfectas. Vt in verbo Colligo, istæ locutioni, Colligare impetum furentis, adiici interpretationis causa tantummodo, to repreſſe, ꝛc. reliquam partem sententiæ reliqui industriæ lectoris. Item, in Circulus, ista sententia, Circulos ſuos orbes q̃ conficiunt celeritate mirabili ſtellæ, hanc imperfectam habet adiunctam expositionem: Ga their courſes wyth marueylous. ꝛc. Vbi vides eius duntaxat partis expositionem, quæ difficillima sit, & quæ pertineat ad vocabulum, cuius vsus eo loco describitur: cætera consulto prætermisi. Hanc rationem licet multis fortasse minus probatam, me tamen vel inuitum persequi coegit studium breuitatis: quam licet & hac in re, & alijs quibuscunque potui modis secutus sum, vides tamen plus iusto voluminis magnitudinem creuisse.

Non defuturos scio, qui vernaculam interpretationem reprehendant, tanquam multis in locis parum commodè latinis respondentem. Sed ab æquis lectoribus vehementer contendo, vt iudicium suum differant, donec in eum locum inciderint, vnde phrases ipsæ desumptæ sunt. In matetnum enim sermonem transfudi, non eo quidem sensu, quem prima fronte præ se ferre videntur Latina: sed iuxta mentem & sententiam authoris, quem citaui. Exempli causa, Vidimus sic legent, Viui peruenimus illuc. Virg. Statim expectabunt hanc interpretationem, We came thyther alyue. Sed ego sensum authoris secutus, sic verti: We haue lyued to ſee that. Item in Tarditas, Cursu corrigere tarditatem, hunc in modum interpretatus sum: With moze ſpéde to make amendes foz his ſlowneſſe beforе time. At multi credent magis apposite me vertisse, si dixissem, To amende his ſlowneſſe with running. Quæ interpretatio longè discrepasset ab authoris sententia. Hæc pauca satis fuerit exempli causa demonstrasse: cum tamen alia plurima sint eiusdem generis.

Omnis dictio, quæ ex classicis & probatis authoribus depromitur, habet authoris nomen ascriptum. Quod si qua non habuerit, eam scito vel Græcam esse, nec dum in satis probatum vsum Latini sermonis pertractam: vel eiusmodi Latinam, quæ in laudatis scriptoribus non reperiatur.

Locutionum formulæ post vnumquodque vocabulum non temerè & confusè, sed alphabetica serie commodissimè congestæ sunt, vt minori negotio se querentibus offerant.

Vbicunque repereris hanc notam ascriptam. ¶. ibi scito vel significationem, vel vsum dictionis nonnihil discrepare ab eo, quod proximè superius præcesserat.

Non

NON inutile mihi videtur, vt, propositis quibusdam exemplis, quasi digito tyronibus demonstrem, quem fructum possint ex hoc Thesauro decerpere. Quæ res si fortè á me tractabitur magis crassa Minerua, quàm vt prouectioribus & exercitatis gratum esse possit: cogitent me eorum maximè causa facere, qui destituti magistris viuæ vocis institutionem non sunt consecuti. Hanc item rationem si illi Literarum magistri, qui per se meliorem excogitare non possunt, in suis prælectionibus obseruare voluerint, non inutilem meo iudicio nauabunt operam.

Or ſo much as the vnſkilfull or yong learned Scholars can not of themselues conceyue the vſe of this Booke, I haue thought it good by examples to note vnto them, what fruit and commoditie they make take therof, in so plaine forme or maner as I can deuise. First therfore they may here learne, what part of speach the woꝛde is. For Nownes & Verbes may be knowne by their declyning, which commonly is here noted: and the other parteſ are expreſſely named: as, Participles, Aduerbes, Conunctions, ꝛc. Next, they may ſee, what accent it ſhould haue, and how it is to be pronounced: as, Piſcina, penul. prod. not Piſcina. If it be a Nowne, they may knowe whether it be Adiectiue or Subſtantiue. For Adiectiues be expreſſely noted moſt commonly, and Subſtantiues may be perceyued by their Gender and Declenſon. If it be a Subſtantiue, let them marke what Gender it is, and of what Declenſon. The Gender both is added moſt commonly, and where it is not, may be learned by the phraſes following: and the Declenſon may be gathered by the Genitiue caſe. As, Dux, is noted to be the common Gender, and the Genitiue caſe Ducis, whereby it to be the third Declenſon. Ducatus, is noted to be the maſculine gender, and Ducatus the Genitiue caſe declareth it to be the fourth Declenſon. Then may they further learne, whether the woꝛde be a Primitiue, or Derivatiue deduced of ſome other. For all the Derivatiues are ſet wyth their ſignifications and phraſes, in a ſmaller Latine letter after their Primitiues. As for example after thys Primitiue, Duco, followeth Ducens, Ductus, Ducatus, Dux, Ductor, Ductarius, Ductilis, Ductim. Wherby wyth great profite they may learne, as it were, the whole progenie and offyring of any woꝛde. Next, let them further marke the dyuers ſignifications of the woꝛde, and the manyfolde conſtructions and diſcs of the ſame, be it Aerbe, Nowne, or other. As, Certamen, ſometyme ſignifieth a game, or play: as, Ex Certaminis. Sometyme ſtrife, debate, contention: as, Certamen eſt mihi cum illo. Sometyme fight or battayle: as, conſerere Certamen. This diuerſitie of ſignifications I haue not onely noted togither conſiſely in the firſt expoſition of the woꝛde, but afterwarde alſo diſtinctly eache by it ſelfe, with the phraſes to the ſame belonging: which he may finde out by thys Paragraffe ¶ which is noted wherefoeuer eyther the ſignification, or the vſe of the thing alтereth. In a Aerbe they haue to note, whether it be Primitiue or Derivatiue, of what Conjugation it is, what is the Preterperfect tenſe and Supines, what diuerſitie of ſignifications, and variete of conſtructions it hath. As, Contendo, is declared to be a Primitiue, and hath deduced of it theſe Derivatiues, Contentus, Contentè, Contentio, Contentioſus, &c. The Conjugation may be knowne by the termination of the Infinitiue mode Contendere, there added. The Preterperfect tenſe, and the Supines are expreſſed as well in this woꝛde, as all other. Contendo, ſometime ſignifieth to bende: as, Contendere arcum. Sometyme to ſtretch: as, Ilia riſu contendere. Sometyme to ſtraine harde: as, Contendere vincla. Sometyme to go to: as, Contendere Romam. Sometyme to indeuour: as, Contendere omnibus neruis. Sometyme e rneſtly to deſire: as, Omni ſtudio á te mi Brute contendo. Sometyme to contende, as Contendo de honore. Sometyme to cõpare: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia. The diuerſitie of conſtruction of all other poynten is eſpecially to be obſerued, which ofcentimes chaungeth, as the ſignification altereth. As Contendo, ſignifying to ſtretch or bende, ſometyme hath an Accuſatiue caſe only, as Contendere poplitem: ſometime an Accuſatiue with an Ablatiue: as, Ilia riſu contendere. When it ſignifieth to go, it hath ſometyme an Accuſatiue alone: as, Romam contendit: ſometyme an Ablatiue with, cum: as, Iure contendere cum aliquo: ſometyme an Accuſatiue with ad: as, Contendit ad patrem: ſometyme an Accuſatiue with, in, or ad, and alſo an Ablatiue, as Magnis inneribus contendere in Italiam, vel ad exercitum. When it ſignifieth to indeuour, ſometyme it is vſed abſolutely, as Eniti & contendere debet: ſometime with an Ablatiue: as, Labore contendere: ſometime an Infinitiue mode, as Dyrrhachium peter e contendit: ſometime an Accuſatiue with, Contra, and vt, following: as, Contra grauitatem morbi contendit, vt conſequatur, &c. Sometime an Accuſatiue with ad, and an Ablatiue: as, Maximis periculis ad ſummam laudem contendere: ſometime an Aduerbe, as Fruſtra contendere. When it ſignifieth to deſire, it is moſt commonly vſed with an Accuſatiue of the thing, and an Ablatiue with, A, or ab, of the perſon: as, Hoc á me contendebat. ſometime in ſtede of the Accuſatiue, an other Ablatiue is added wyth de: as Pompeius vehementer áme contendit de reditu in gratiam: In place of which Ablatiue may be vſed the Subiunctiue mode with vt, as, Contendit á me vt redeam in gratiam. When it ſignifieth to ſtriue or contende, it hath ſometyme an Accuſatiue with, aduerſum, or contra: as, Summa vi contendere aduerſum, vel contra aliquem: ſometyme a Datiue: as, Hyrundo contendit cygnis: ſometyme an Ablatiue with, cum: as, Iure contendere cum aliquo: ſometyme an Accuſatiue with inter, and an Ablatiue: as, Verbis inter ſe contendunt: ſometyme an Ablatiue with de: as, De honore contendere. When it ſignifieth to compare, it hath ſometyme an Accuſatiue, and an Ablatiue with cum: as, Contendere rem aliquam cum alia: ſometime the Ablatiue is turned into the Datiue, as Contendere rem aliquam alteri. And thus variete of cõſtruction is not onely to be conſidered in the diuerſitie of caſes, but alſo of other partes vnderſigned: as, in Emineo, non haue, Eminere extra terram, Eminet ante oculos, Eminet in re aliqua, Inter omnes eminet, Eminebat ex ore cruditas, Eminet ira in ſuos, Eminet ferrum per coſtas, Eminet á mari globus terræ. It is alſo to be noted, what Aduerbes authours doe vſe with verbes: as, Ciuiliter contendere, Inimiciſsimè atq; infeſtiſſimè contendere, Palam & vehementer contendere. Moreouer the phraſes of elegancie, and eſpecially ſuch as haue any good grace of Metaphoꝛs: as, Contendere neruos ætatis & induſtriæ in re aliqua: Fores amicitiæ aperire: Fontem liberalitatis exhaurire, &c. It helpeth much alſo to the apt vſe of the Latine tongue to obſerue in verbes, with what Nownes they be well well vsed: and in Nownes, what Verbes and Adiectiues they haue ioyned with them. In the Verbe Creo, beside other you haue Aerumnas creare, to worke one miserie: Arbores creare, to bring forth trees: Carmina creata de aliquo, Verses made vpon one: Commoditates creare alicui, to worke one sundry commodities: Fatidium creare, to cause lothsomnesse: Periculum creare, to procure daunger, &c. In Nownes also, as I saide, it is good to consider first, what Substantiues or Adiectiues are ioyned to them as Epithetons. In the worde Amicitia, you haue Condimentum amicitiæ, Conciliator amicitiæ, Fores amicitiæ, fons, finis, exitus, ius, lex, ornamentum, simulatio, vinculum amicitiæ. Also these Adiectiues Ambitiosa, communis, pudica, grauis, excellens, insausta, iusta, vera, stabilis, suauis, venusta, amicitia, with many other that for brenitie I rehearle not. Likewyse it hath these Verbes, Comparare, contrahere, consequi, conciliare, gignere, acquirere, parere amicitiam: conglutinare, coniungere, connectere, coniugare, constituere amicitiam: discindere, dirumpere, dissociare, dissluere amicitiam, with many mo of lyke sort, which diligently to marke shall both greatly helpe, not onely the knowledge of the right vse of the Latine tongue, but also the copious enriching of the same. This is not only to be done in Nownes and Verbes, but in Aduerbes, Coniunctions, and Prepositions. In the apt vse whereof consisteth a great part of the eleganeie of the Latine tongue. Last of all, a studious yong man, with small paines, by the helpe of this booke may gather to himselfe good furniture both of wordes and apposed phrases and fashions of speaking for any thing, that he shall eyther write or speake of, and so make vnto his vse, as it were a common place booke for such a purpose. As in the matter of loue and friendship, if he take two or three of the chiefe wordes belonging to that purpose, as for example, Amicus, amo, amor, and then consider the wordes deryued of them, and the phrases to the same belonging, there is nothing par aduenture to that matter, but that he shall be able copiously to vtter it. And if he adde the search of some mo wordes of that signification, as Charitas beneuolentia, &c. he shall meruelously enriche that common place. To shew this by the example of this matter of loue or friendship, for so much as it is somewhat copious, it would be longer, than thys place requyreth. I will declare it by a matter of smaller vse and copie. In the feare of shooting you haue these two chiefe instruments, Arcus, and Sagitta, in considering the phrases of which two, you may procure this store and furniture: Acer arcus, a strong or quicke casting bowe: Vastus arcus, a lugge, or a mighty bigge bow: Sonans arcus, a ringing bowe: Arcus laxus, remissus, retentus, a bowe vnbent: Arcus tentus, intentus, contentus, a bowe bent: Sumere & corripere manu arcum, to take a bowe in his hande: Arcum lentare, aut curuare, to bowe a bow, as one doth in assaying the strength of it, before it be bent: Arcum neruo temperare, to string a bow: Arcum tendere, intendere, contendere, flectere, to bende a bowe: Laxare, retendere, remittere arcum, to vnbend a bow: Arcum adducere, sinuare, lunare, to drawe a bowe: Arcu se exercere, to go on shooting, to practise shooting: Arcu telum dirigere, Dirigere arcum in aliquid, Obuertere arcum in aliquid, Tendere arcum aliquò, to lay his hande towarde a thing to shoote at it: Emittere vel expellere arcu sagittam, Neruo sagittam impellere, to shoote: Petere aliquem arcu, to shoote at: Stringere aliquid arcu, Arcu ferire, Infigere alicui sagittam, Configere sagitta, to hitte that he shooteth at: Sagitta stridens, an arrow that singeth as he goeth: Sagittæ leues, volucres, celeres, Arrowes swift of slight: Acuere sagittam, & asperare sagittam ferro vel culpide, to set an heade on an arrowe: Armari sagittis, to haue arrowes by his side: Deprimere & promere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe to shoote: Corripere sagittam, to take forth an arrowe quickly: Neruus per Cælum diuerberat sagittam, the bowe deliuereth forth the arrowe: Sagittæ pendent à latere, his arrowes are by his side: Expedire alimenta arcu, with his bowe to kill beastes or foule to liue by. There is more I graunt that may be brought to this purpose: but by these and the imitation of them, any thing well neare pertayning to that feate may be vttered in good Latine. This haue I here noted at the request of certayne, that by their owne labour without instruction or helpe of maisters traueyle to attayne the knowledge of the Latine tongue: as for other that eyther be themselfe well learned, or haue good m[illegible] they haue no great neede of this boke, so haue they no nede at all of this admonition.

Thesauri largas magni Couperus amicè
Pandit opes: studijs præstat opemq; tuis.
Non pretium, non te moles deterreat ista:

Muneris authorem tanti venerare iuuentus,

THOMAS VVYKVS LINCOLNIENsis hospitij Sotius, ad Thomam Cooperum.

Temporibus nostris taceat iam barbarus Hortus:
Immensas iactet nec Calepinus opes.
Fronte gerat nigro non album, Copia, cornu:
Ceslet Nizolius de Cicerone loqui.
Immodica careat iam tandem laude Doletus:
Thesaurum Stephanus nec super astra vehat.
Tu facilè es princeps, tu, tu, Coopere canendus
Præ cunctis alijs: hic liber, hic labor est.

Eiusdem carmen Sapphicum.

Facta non miror senioris æui:
Hic nouus vincit veteres labores:
Non labor tantus numerosa pugna
Herculis Hydra:
Non vbi traxit Stygijs ab vndis
Horridum corpus canis inquieti.
Iste bissenos superat labores
Herculis omnes.
Iste serpentis rabiem bilinguis
Solus Alcides premit: iste narrat
Ter trium mentes stabili sororum
Fœdere iunctas.
Ergo cum duro præeas labore
Herculem magnum Coopere, par est
Plausus vt vastum resonet per orbem
Hercule dignus.
Quisq; te iungat laribus: tuumq;
Numen & nomen super astra tollat
Plausibus, ludis, precibus, choreis,
Laude, triumphis.

THOMAS VALENS LINCOLnienſis hoſpitij Sotius, ad Thomam Cooperum.

Optime multiplici florens Coopere loquela,
Qui patrias voces Ausoniasq; tenes:
Tu decus es patriæ vocis, tu gloria linguæ:
Tu facis innumeros cultiùs ore loqui.
Insunt quippe tuo tot commoda mixta libello,
Aequore quot pisces, Sydera quotq; polo.
Nam præter rerum species & singula verba,
Non linguæ ratio, non phrasis vna vacat.
Hinc victi siliant, quicunq; in honore steterunt:
Et laudem solus temporis huius habe.
Quos etenim præsens, quos aut videre vetusta
Secula scriptores, tu Coopere præis.
Tu Coopere præis, præit & tua fama perennis,
Fama tibi nullo diminuenda die.
Omnia nam reliquis quæ sunt perscripta libellis,
Abs te sunt vno connumerata libro.

ad Lectorem.

Lactauere Iouem nymphæ sub vallibus Idæ:
Lactantum merces tum κέρας ἀιγὸς erat.
Fluxit ab hoc omnis, fœcundo, copia cornu:
Copia non vlla commoditate carens.
Iuppiter iccirco si dictus ab orbe iuuando,
Qui fouet omne iuuans, is fouet ergo Iouem.
Copia sic nulli desit, qui talia nutrit
Quæ patriam fructu fertiliore iuuent.
Ergo opera, lactans Cooperus vt vbere Musas
Exuberans cornu commoditatis habet.
Hinc, studijs iuuenes, depromite commoda vestris:
Hinc, nihil, explicitum quod cupiatis, abest.
Namq; dat vberius Cooperi Copia cornu,
Illud Amalthiea quam κέρας ἀιγὸς erat.
