Note on handsThe text of the letter is in an upright and regular secretary hand, not Spenser's; the signatures appear to be autograph. The italic first endorsement ('Advertizementes from Waterford./') is likely in Spenser's mixed hand. Spenser has also certified the letter with his signature at the bottom of the third page. The marginal annotations and the second endorsement are in a familiar italic hand, perhaps Walsingham's own.

- * Endorsements] A good deal of what appears to be contemporary doodling appears adjacent to the endorsements, including the phrase 'A Monsieur d donner'.
- \tilde{I}^* 18 went] 'went' inserted above the line, with a caret mark.
- 1 22 thousand{e}] Damage to the manuscript here has obscured the end of this word; it could possibly be 'thousands'.
- \tilde{I}^* 25 febr•uarij] An extra character in the middle of this word has been deleted.
- ĩ* 36 •••.v.] 'iij' deleted.
- 1 's 52 told him...ships'] 'told him ther that so sone as the said ships' inserted above the line in a different secretary hand (Spenser's?), with a caret mark. This is a clear case of corrected eyeskip. The double vertical bar in the left margin indicates that, because of the long insertion, these two lines of text represent a single line in the manuscript.
- \tilde{I}^* 63 yere] 'yere' inserted above the line, with a caret mark.
- $\tilde{1}^*$ 75 deputie] 'deputie' inserted above the line, with a caret mark.
